What is Desire?

Desire is a strong feeling of wanting something or wishing for something to happen. It can be physical, emotional, intellectual, or spiritual. It fuels action—it can drive people toward great achievements, but when unfulfilled, it can also lead to frustration. In philosophy and psychology, desire is deeply connected to human motivation, pleasure, and even suffering as seen in Buddhist teachings.

From a scientific perspective, desire is rooted in our brain chemistry. Dopamine, the "reward chemical," plays a key role in our cravings and motivations. This is why we chase pleasure, seek rewards, and sometimes find ourselves longing for things we can't quite explain.

But desire isn't just biological—it's also shaped by culture. Societies define what is considered beautiful, acceptable, or taboo, influencing what we find erotic or forbidden.

Some desires align with social norms, while others exist at the edges—transgressive, intriguing, and sometimes the most fascinating of all.

Desires are multifaceted. They can be/feel sexy and romantic, but also absurd, comical, weird, violent, dangerous, or soft and sweet. And that's exactly what makes them so powerful. Our minds are catalysers of creativity, capable of shaping fantasies in endless ways.

Welcome to CREATIVE SEXUALITY: The Territory of Desire - a retreat where we celebrate, explore, and bring our desires to life. Through guided exercises, embodied conscious kink practices, creative play, and interactive experiences, we will unpack what desire means to us, discover its hidden layers, and play with its possibilities.

This is a consent-based space where you are encouraged to explore at your own pace. There will be exercises you do alone, in duos, and small groups. All exercises are only invitations and you can step out at any time. Nudity is optional, always respecting personal boundaries. All practices can be adapted to your comfort level.

Who is this for?

- Those who want to creatively and somatically explore conscious kink practices.
- Anyone curious about deepening their relationship with their body, sensuality, and desires.
- People interested in erotic creativity, fantasy, and embodiment.
- Both beginners and experienced explorers of conscious kink, pleasure, and sexuality.
- All genders, body types, and sexual orientations (18+).

If you are ready to step into a space of curiosity, connection, and creative erotic exploration—welcome.
